Lots of Beer.

The account of beer sold at the Labor Day picnic as turned in by the bar committee, and according to the bills paid was: Belmont Brewery, 32 half barrels; Reymann, 40 half barrels, and Schmulbach 54 half barrels; total, 126 half barrels.

Ben Hogan in Hawaii.

Ben Hogan, the ex-pugilist revivalist who did such good work here, sends to the INTELLIGENCER a copy of the Pacific Commercial Advertiser, printed at Honolulu, Sandwich Islands, August 19, which mentions Ben's arrival there, prints a sketch of his life, and announces that he will engage in revival work there soon.

The Mannington Base Ball Club.

A member of the Mannington Base Ball club, replying to the card of Mr. James W. Paxton, informs the INTELLIGENCER that the car in which the club rode was chartered for its uses, and that anybody else riding in it did so by the club's courtesy. This correspondent adds that the members of his club are gentlemen.

Nearly an Accident.

Yesterday afternoon when Woods street near Sixteenth was crowded with people and vehicles attending the funeral of Mrs. Martin, a horse hitched to a buckboard buggy which had been left untied farther up the street was frightened by a passing motor and dashed at mad speed through the crowd. Fortunately it was seen in time, and the people and carriages were all gotten out of the way, but a terrible accident was narrowly evaded.

The U. S. Glass Company.

Two of the officials of the U. S. Glass Company were down from Pittsburgh Saturday looking at the Central factory. One of them was Mr. Adams, head of the mold making department, who thought he would have an extra force of men here to go to work in the Central mold shops by a week from to-day. Doyle & Co., the Pittsburgh glass manufacturers, sold out to the United States Company Saturday, making sixteen factories now in the company.

Too Much Fruit.

Hon. John W. Hamilton, of Grantsville, Calhoun county, arrived in the city last evening on legal business. He says all the crops were fine in that section, and there is so abundant a yield of apples that many of the early varieties are rotting on the ground, as there is no way to get them to market. The people have hopes, however, that the new railroad will be built and give them communication with the wide, wide world. The right-of-way has nearly all been secured.

Lot Sale Saturday.

The final sale of lots in the Henderson addition to the city, lying near Jonathan's ravine, was made by Auctioneer Hervey Saturday afternoon in front of the court house. Septimius Ingram bought lots 7 and 16, division C, for $112; Joseph Dusch bought lot 17, division C, for $64; Mary Garrison bought lots 12 and 13, in division A, for $142; John Moore bought lot 5, division A, for $50; James Gosney bought lot 20, division A, for $59; Thomas Deibach bought lots 4 and 13, in division C, for $86; Thomas M. Kelley bought lots 22 and 23, in division A, for $110; William Schrack bought lot 21, in division A, for $80; John R. Ritz bought lots 11 and 12, in division B, for $63; Jere Myles bought lots 6 and 15, in division C, for $86; and Thomas Deibach bought lots 5 and 14, division C, for $86.

New Kind of Film Flam.

A man who had been running a shell game last Saturday near John Henretta's saloon, at Moundsville, and who succeeded in fleecing several chumps, played a neat little game on Mr. Henretta's bar-keeper. He bought a drink and tendered a five-dollar bill out of which pay for the drink was to be taken. He spread the bill on the counter, taking great pains that the bar-keeper would see it was a "five." The bar-keeper took the bill and was about to put it in the drawer, when the sharper said, "Hold on, I believe I have some smaller change." The money was handed back to him and he deftly substituted a one-dollar bill for the five and handed it over saying, "Oh, well, never mind, take the bill. I need some change any way." The money was put in the drawer by the bar-keeper without inspection, he thinking it was the five dollar bill, and change for a five handed over. In a few moments, however, the bar-keeper noticed the swindle and took after the man. He was overtaken and the money returned.

Confirmed.

The favorable impression produced on the first appearance of the agreeable liquid fruit remedy Syrup of Figs a few years ago has been more than confirmed by the pleasant experience of all who have used it, and the success of the proprietors and manufacturers the California Fig Syrup Company.

ATTACKED BY FIVE DOGS.

A Little Boy Almost Killed by English Mastiffs. Saved by Gas Works Employees.

About 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon Edward Gleason, an eight-year-old son of Edward Gleason, of the Central Glass works, went into alley E, near the gas works, but had to be carried out. On his way through the boy stopped to play with four English mastiff pups, and their mother, which were being kept by Mrs. Moran, but belonged to Dr. Reefe. The dogs did not seem to appreciate the boy's play, and the old dog jumped on him, bore him to the ground, and all five proceeded to chew him up. The boy's cries attracted the attention of David Greer, an employee of the gas works, who rushed out and belabored the brutes with a broom handle. The old dog left the boy and tackled Greer, who kept her off with the broom, but was unable to assist the boy, who was being fearfully mangled by the other four dogs. By this time William Gibbs, another employee of the gas works, had come out, and with an iron bar beat the dogs off.

The boy was bitten in the face, part of an ear was chewed off, and other parts of his body badly bitten. He was taken to his home and a physician was called in to dress his wounds. The injuries are painful, but not as serious as was first thought. Chief Delbrugge and Officer Carney went out to the place and succeeded in killing the five dogs, which were taken to the crematory.

People in the neighborhood say that the dogs were half starved, and it is supposed that the taste of blood made them unmanageable.

THE THEATRES THIS WEEK.

Good Attractions Abundant at Both Houses—Stage Chant.

Both the local theatres offer good attractions for State Fair week. At the Opera House "The Little Tycoon" holds the boards Wednesday night, Al. G. Fields' minstrels Thursday night, and Palmer's "Last Days of Pompeii" Friday and Saturday evenings. At the Grand, James Reilly will open the week with "The Broommaker," and it will close with the "Boy Tramp."

"THE LITTLE TYCOON."

The one wholly American comic opera that has been able to hold its own against the importations and adaptations upon which the American stage depends almost entirely is Willard Spenser's "Little Tycoon." It has been sung almost constantly for five years, and the public has not shown a sign of being tired of its delightful melodies. Almost every member in the cast has made a distinct hit. The waltz "Love Comes Like a Summer Sign," the eccentric "Heel and Toe," the topical "When I was a Boy," and "It were Better Not to Know," the baritone "Dark Though My Tale May Be," the daisy song and the Tycoon march are the particularly popular melodies. It will be seen at the Opera House Wednesday evening, and the sale of seats will open at House's music store this morning.

JAMES REILLY IN "THE BROOM MAKER."

The Detroit Sun speaks as follows of James Reilly, who commences a three night's engagement at the Grand this evening:

The Opera House was graced with a large and enthusiastic audience to witness the excellent performance of James Reilly and his well selected company in "The Broom Maker." Mr. Reilly improves continually, while his singing is better, if possible, than ever. He certainly is the most acceptable comedian in the German dialect line. Reilly in his character as Yohann also impersonates a female Irish character, Widow McFoy, and displays a rare talent in the Celtic line. His makeup is artistic, and the Irish songs and dances are very suggestive of W. J. Scanlan, the acknowledged peer in Irish comedy. The play of "The Broom Maker" is interesting and introduces the two little stars, Etta and Robbie, clever, pretty and remarkably precocious for five-year-olds.

DRAMATIC NOTES.

There are more shows on the road than ever before.

The famous Mignani family of five people, classical musicians, are with the Al. G. Field minstrels.

John Lowlow, of the Robinson circus, is laid up from the effects of scratches received at the paw of an enraged lion.

E. H. Sothern's new play "The Dancing Girl," is a great advance upon the work he did at the beginning. His role, dramatically, is very important.

Al. G. Field was the recipient of a beautiful gold-headed cane at Columbus last Sunday night, given by the Columbus Lodge of Elks, of which Mr. Fields is a member. Exalted Ruler S. N. Cook presented the cane in the lodge.

Mrs. Jennie Kimball, Manageress of Coriuno, announces that her star is now seventeen years old. To my certain knowledge Corinne has been sweet sixteen for the last eight years, but that doesn't count. Mrs. Kimball says she's seventeen, and that goes. It doesn't matter much what an actress' age is if she is clever, and Corinne trots in that class.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Gus Williams, during a brief vacation this summer, wrote ten new songs, all of which he keeps for his exclusive use and will sing in "Keppler's Fortunes." A song writer approached the comedian in Chicago recently and wanted to contract to write him something new. "No, sir," exclaimed Williams; "when I am no longer able to write my own songs, I'll quit singing." Gus is very jealous of his ability to compose his songs, and has never yet used one that he did not compose.

Pearl Eyring's latest venture is a play written by herself, in which she will appear as the star, opening her season early in September. The piece is a drama in four acts called Vivien. It deals with the life of an adventuress, who scatters misery in her course in revenge for the wrongs inflicted upon her. The story turns upon her discovery of her ideal manhood in the person of an American artist in Paris, to whom she is sitting for her portrait.

Unique, Comprehensive, Mammoth, Gigantic and Magnificent

Stock of Fall Goods,

Wherewith to clothe and adorn the male sexis beyond a doubt the Grandest and Finest Ever Seen in the City.

The goods being now at their best, don't let the crowds get ahead of you. Come as early as you can and satisfy yourselves that every word we utter in print is backed up by the goods, and prices unapproachable.

Every day this week an irresistible fusillade of bargains. Such in fact as would bankrupt half the houses in town to sell. Let us tell you plainly the advantages you have in dealing with us. You can get more for your money; you have more to choose from; things are newer, because they come and go faster; you see the latest fashions, the best of designs, all the styles; you can obtain anything in the way of clothing, hats and furnishing goods that you can possibly want or desire. So confident are we that we can outdistance all competition that we say: Come here and look—somewhere and examine—then SPEND YOUR MONEY WHERE YOU THINK YOU ARE OFFERED THE BEST VALUES FOR YOUR MONEY.

FALL OVERCOATS!

BEAUTIFUL GOODS AND ARTISTIC STYLES.

Your choice from a stock so varied, so tailor-like, so elegant, so gigantic as to be positively unequalled this side of New York. A mammoth display, which embraces everything desirable, good and stylish which will be worn during the coming season. An assortment rivaling with the choicest products of the most famed clothing manufacturers of the East—all thoroughly good, honest, fitting and truly elegant—THE GRANDEST STOCK IN TOWN BY LONG ODDS. Prices so low as to be inconceivable without you see for yourself.

NEW FALL SUITS!

BEAUTIFUL GOODS AND ARTISTIC STYLES.

All the styles in all grades, from plain to finest, are now at their best. No where in the city will you find even one fifth of the great and superb stock we display, and as a matter of course you can always be fitted here in a sensible and luxurious manner. Pay a visit of inspection and see for yourselves that our claims of being able to give you quite as good in every way as a merchant tailor can at almost one-half the price are founded on fact. Our stock embraces everything: it is immense, matchless, of mammoth proportions. All through our comprehensive and magnificent stock you will be pleased with the cheering styles and surprised at the small prices, which we warrant the lowest in town.

FURNISHING GOODS.

Our large and complete Furnishing Goods Department is full, to overflowing with all the new and unusual things of the season. Every store round town will tell you that they have the best goods for the least money, but don't you believe 'em. None can compare with
